

Mr. Troy Anthony Clay

Mr. Troy Clay currently serves as the Chief of Staff for the U.S. Army Soldier Support Institute (SSI). Prior to this position, he was the Director of Resource Management for the SSI where he served as the principal financial advisor to the Commander on all financial management, civilian human resources, and manpower management matters.

Mr. Clay retired from the U.S. Army Finance Corps in 2013 after a distinguished 28+ year career in the Army. He is a highly accomplished senior level professional with extensive leadership, management, financial operations and training experience in both the Army and DoD.

During his military career, Mr. Clay held a variety of key leadership positions in support of Army Financial Management operations across the Army. Most noteworthy, Mr. Clay served as the 37th and 39th Commandant of the U.S. Army Financial Management School and Chief of the Army's Finance Corps. In this position, he led the school and Corp's efforts in providing Army Capabilities Development and Integration; Proponency; Training Development; and Training and Education support to Army Military, Sister Service Members, and DoD Civilian personnel. Mr. Clay also served as the 13th Commander of the U.S. Army Financial Management Command. In this capacity, he provided global finance support and liaison between various Army FM organizations and Government National Providers to ensure essential FM support was in place during contingency operations. Additionally, Mr. Clay served in myriad of command and staff positions throughout his career providing financial management support across the Army's strategic, operational and tactical levels.

Mr. Clay's education credentials include a Bachelor of Science Degree in Accounting from Monmouth University and a Master of Accountancy Degree from the University of South Carolina. Additionally, he holds a Master's Degree in Strategic Studies from the U.S. Army War College. During his illustrious military career, Mr. Clay earned the Towson, the Distinguish Member of the Regiment, and Goetz Medallions for his career achievements in support of the Army Finance Corps' core values of Patriotism, Integrity, Competence, and Service.

Mr. Clay has been married to his college sweetheart for over 25 years and they have two adult children.